ABSTRACT

This guide describes and indexes a collection of film designated as the "Vietnam Archives" (dating from 1965 to 1972 and collected by the producers of an award-winning Vietnam War protest documentary) and the 1968-1972 newsfilm footage from WISC and WKOW, two of Madison, Wisconsin's commercial television stations. The subject matter of the newsfilm included in the guide covers the entire range of local news and features of the time period as well as coverage of state political and legislative events, the University of Wisconsin, comments on national events by Wisconsin members of Congress, activity generated by local, state, and national election campaigns, and public support and opposition to the Vietnam War. The guide is in three parts. The first and largest part consists of film segment descriptions, grouped by collection, noting what each segment of film concerns, its date, the form of coverage (i.e. "studio interviews" or "feature"), and physical features (such as length, silent or sound, color or black and white, etc.) The second part of the guide is a "form index," listing all segments of film under form of coverage headings, and the third part is a partial index to names and topics represented in the descriptions. INTRODUCTION

BACKGROUND

The State Historical Society of Wisconsin Archives Division includes in its holdings over six million feet of newsfilm from television stations in the state. Included is film from (WSAU (Wausau) and WHA (the University of Wisconsin based PBS affiliate), and extensive footage from Madison's three commercial stations: WISC (the CBS affiliate), WKOW (ABC), and WMTV (NBC). This film dates 1955-1981, covering most of the period when 16mm film was the standard medium of production. Other Wisconsin newsfilm is held by the Neville Public Museum which houses film from three Green Bay stations, and WTMJ in Milwaukee which has its own archives.

Newsfilm such as this often provides the only easily available visual and sound resources for the study of major local events, individuals of both local and national influence, and the appearance of environments since altered. Historians find such film valuable for the information it sought to convey to viewers. Social historians recognize its value in documenting attitudes, values, and cultural themes. Mass communications specialists use it to chart the changes over time in media coverage, techniques, and emphasis. Local newsfilm also can provide direct evidence of the changing patterns of dress, speech, gender roles, and lifestyles.

The holdings represented in this guide constitute a major portion of the TV newsfilm held by the Historical Society. In 1988, the Society received a grant from the National Historical Publications and Records Commission (NHPRC) to fund preservation and descriptive work on the 1955-1972 portion of the WISC, WKOW, and WMTV film in its custody. Also covered was work on a collection of film designated the "Vietnam Archives" consisting of film, 1965-1972, selected from these three stations' holdings plus other sources by the producers of the Vietnam War protest documentary, The War at Home (Catalyst Films, 1979). All of this film is comprised largely of live news footage shot as part of daily news coverage. Not the actual news broadcasts, it is the footage which was produced and then edited with parts only aired. Also present is a small amount of footage distributed by the networks or wire services, occasional promotional or public affairs spots, and a few complete documentaries and edited features.

THIS GUIDE

This guide describes and indexes in part a major portion of the film dealt with under the NHPRC grant. Described is the 1968-1972 footage of two of the stations, WISC and WKOW, and the film constituting the Vietnam Archives. The subject matter covers the entire range of Madison local news and features of this time period as well as coverage of state political and legislative events, the University of Wisconsin, comments on national events by Wisconsin members of Congress, activity generated by local, state, and national election campaigns, and of course public support and opposition to the Vietnam War.

The film described here consists of rolls of varying footage, each containing numerous segments of newsfilm. Segments usually are twenty-five or more feet long and often were preceded by a piece of film leader or of masking tape carrying a brief title or "slug," e.g. "Council meeting 7/21/69." For the WISC and WKOW film, these individual segments were physically compiled into the larger rolls, either by the station before transfer to the archives or by the archives from individual segments grouped into roll-size cans by the station. In some cases, the reason for the grouping is clear, e.g. film shot during one day or week. In other cases, the reason can only be guessed at. Though some of these film segments may be what was broadcast on the evening news, this identification cannot be deduced from clues present now.

The Vietnam Archives also consists of large rolls, each containing numerous film segments. This film was assembled during production of the award-winning documentary, The War at Home, which examined Madison's role in the anti-Vietnam War movement of the 1960s and early 1970s. While making the film, producers Glenn Silber and Barry Brown contributed over 6000 hours identifying footage from the three Madison commercial stations and making lists of the individual segments' slug titles. The film segments they compiled and described in a booklet, "Vietnam Demonstrations and Related Film," is the Vietnam Archives film included in this guide. Descriptions in this guide correct occasional errors made in the booklet and sometimes include additional identifications of individuals shown. The booklet however sometimes includes verbatim excerpts from the footage and also sometimes notes the station which shot the footage. It therefore may be of interest to researchers and is available for use.

USING THE GUIDE

This guide consists of three parts. First and largest are the segment descriptions themselves. Grouped by collection (Vietnam Archives, WISC, or WKOW) and then in order by the roll number, these descriptions note what each segment of film on the roll concerns, its date when known, and the form of coverage, e.g. "Studio interviews" or "Features." Descriptions also note physical features about the segment: its length in feet of film, whether silent or sound (magnetic track or optical), color or black and white, and negative or positive. These segment descriptions cover all film in the Vietnam Archives and all WKOW and WISC film for the years 1968-1972.

The content descriptions were prepared during staff viewing of the film, augmented when possible by the information recorded as film slugs or similar brief identifications from shot log books prepared at the stations. Many segments have only form of coverage indicated with no further description. In these cases, no more specific content information was apparent in the viewing or present in logs or slugs. Roll numbers for the WISC and WKOW film are those used by the stations themselves with the exception of WISC rolls numbered 9001 and above. The Vietnam Archives roll numbers were assigned during the course of this project.

The second part of the guide is a Form Index consisting of a list of all the segments grouped under the form of coverage headings noted in the descriptions, e.g. "Studio interviews."

Citations indicate the segment date and its station and roll and segment number, e.g. WISC 328.12 (station WISC's roll 328, segment 12). This list is intended to assist researchers interested in the footage as examples of certain kinds of media coverage and communication or in topics that may be incidental to the goal of the coverage. The first pages of this section include the list of form headings used and their definitions. The third and final part of this guide is a partial index to names and topics represented in the descriptions. The descriptions of the Vietnam Archives and the 1968 and 1969 WKOW and WISC film have been indexed by both name and subject headings; 1970-1972 WKOW and WISC film is described but not indexed. The index is arranged in one alphabetical sequence. Each entry notes the date of the segment cited and its station and roll and segment number. Some citations include an asterisk (*) before the citation number; this means that the person or topic is not just talked about in the segment but is actually pictured to some degree. For example, a citation with an asterisk under "Elections" may show campaigning or voting activity; a citation without an asterisk may be a studio interview in which possible election results are discussed. Users can turn from the index to the segment descriptions for further details. To view the film itself, researchers should note the station/collection and the roll and segment numbers and seek assistance from the reference staff.

Blake Kellogg does voice-over narration for news piece on anti-CIA demonstration on Bascom Hill. Robert Cohen identified as a "familiar protester face." He leads demonstrators down the hill to the Law School where CIA interviews are conducted. 500 students gather outside Law School. Inside students line hallways where interviews are conducted. Outside demonstrators listen to Law School student John Coatsworth: demonstrations will continue until such agencies as the CIA are denied the right to recruit.

VNA 11.5 432'-519', si&mag,b&w,neg
1967 Speeches. Pre-Dow demonstration rally. Professor Maurice Zeitlin addresses crowd: "CIA is an instrument of American foreign policy." Vet for Peace speaks to rally: "How do we end the war? Maybe 100% tax on war profits."

VNA 11.6 520'-1001', mag,b&w,neg
1967/10 Hearings. David Goldman and his two legal advisors at Senate hearings on Dow. Goldman declines to answer questions until U.S. court has ruled upon his complaint (repeats this several times). Lt. Gov. Jack Olson directly instructs him to answer a question. Goldman refuses. Later, questioning continues. Goldman asked about a particular meeting (SDS meeting). Goldman says SDS had no hand in events of October 18, 1967 (Dow riot). Counsel raises his objection to whole proceeding, says Goldman will answer questions only about his conduct.

VNA 12.1 0'-199', mag,b&w,neg
1967/10 Hearings. David Goldman continues his testimony to Senate Dow hearings. Goldman lists his affiliations: member of WSA, Memorial Union, SDS. Questioner stops him when he lists SDS; Goldman refuses to answer question on whether or not he is an officer of SDS.

VNA 13.6 551'-718', mag,b&w,neg
1967/10 Hearings. Chancellor Sewell before Senate Dow hearing. University of Wisconsin's assumption was that protest would be like others, peaceful. Police were trained that after repeated warnings to protesters, protesters would be arrested.

VNA 14.1 0'-483', mag,b&w,neg
1967/10 Hearings. Chancellor William Sewell before Senate Dow hearing. Students arrested had refused to identify themselves and refused to leave. Strategy was to start carrying people away from building. Protection and Security Chief Ralph Hanson announced that it was an unlawful assembly. Sewell describes meeting with several students during the Commerce Building incident. The students told him that if he asked Dow interviewers to leave the campus, they would attempt to get students to leave the Commerce Building. Ralph Hanson and Wilbur Emery came into Sewell's office and they discussed removal of students. It was their impression that there would be no resistance. Carrying people out of the building did not work. There was a "terrific and massive resistance." Sewell says professors can not be screened for political views.

FORM INDEX

FORM HEADINGS DEFINITIONS

The Form Headings listed below have been adopted to describe standard means of communication or repeated events with a quite standardized method of media coverage. Based on terms from Moving Image Materials: Genre Forms by Martha Yee (Library of Congress, 1988), the list includes some additional terms as well as some more specific definitions of terms. The definitions below reflect the terms' application in this project. The Form Index follows these definitions.

Awards ceremonies: Award, plaque, medal, commendation, etc. presented to person(s) in public ceremony.

Banquets: Guests seated at banquet tables, tables set for food service, head table seen or implied. A special occasion, not just a meal.

Candidacy announcements: Person(s) making formal, public announcement of political candidacy or announcing they will not run for office.

Celebrity visits: Well-known "personality" (excluding political figures) arrives and/or departs, scenes at airport, greeting ceremony by mayor or governor, maybe followed by a press conference, presentation of key to the city.

Features (Newsfilm): "Soft" news quality, human interest appeal.

Graduation ceremonies: High school, college, technical college, university, police and fire academies, etc. Shows processions, speakers, diploma presentation, views of audience.

Groundbreakings: Dignitaries posing with shovels or trowels, digging, cornerstone laying.

Hearings: Public proceedings with testimony by citizens, interested individuals, or representatives. Shows official(s) present; people testifying at microphones. Held by municipal, county, state and federal governments as well as school boards and other official bodies.

House fires: Firefighters at scene of house fire or aftermath.

Judicial proceedings: Courtroom proceedings including arraignments, trials, people entering or exiting courtroom, scenes in judges' chambers, State Supreme Court sessions, and swearing-in ceremonies (those taking place in court, such as citizenship ceremonies).

Man on the street interviews: Public opinion poll; people asked topical questions in public settings.

Meetings: People convened for discussion, planning, etc. Includes deliberative sessions of legislative bodies.

News: On the scene reporter giving coverage of news event "as it happens."

On-site interviews: Interview conducted in subject's own surroundings -- office, home, workplace, etc. -- or at the scene of an event.

Openings: Includes grand openings (shopping centers, businesses), formal dedications, ribbon cuttings.

Panel discussions: Group of speakers taking turns addressing gathering (participants usually seated so they face audience); audience may or may not be shown.

Political announcements: Includes political endorsements, political statements. Does not include candidacy announcements.

Press conferences: Includes person(s) addressing the media, making statements or announcements (other than candidacy announcements). Shots of TV and newspaper reporters taking notes, cameras, banks of microphones in front of speakers.

Promotional materials: Can be generated by the stations themselves or by the armed forces, industry, and others to highlight products, career opportunities, or a cause.

Public announcements: Announcements other than those of a political or candidacy nature. Person(s) usually seated facing camera and making direct address.

Special reports: Produced after event(s) for in-depth reporting. Topical; issue oriented.

Speeches: Speaker is addressing a group or gathering which may or may not be shown. Includes portions of speeches and instances of people who appear to be making a speech.

Sports: Includes footage of actual games and practices as well as coaches and others talking about sports.

Studio interviews: Interview conducted in TV studio or anonymous setting.

Traffic accident reports: Vehicle accident reports, shots of damaged vehicle(s), police, ambulance, wreckers, onlookers often on scene.

Unknown: Completely unidentifiable as to participants, events, place and time.

Wire service: Film shot by wire service company (UPI, Hearst, etc.). Story usually national in scope. Many are feature or "soft news" variety.
